

Commercial Litigation and Dispute Resolution

TSol handles a large volume of high-value and complex commercial disputes on behalf of a range of public sector clients.

We represent a wide range of Government Departments and other statutory and non-statutory bodies in the Courts and in commercial arbitrations. We also have experience of handling mediations and advising on a wide variety of contentious commercial matters.

Please see our separate sheets on Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) and Commercial Law and Public Procurement.

Our specialist expertise

We have expertise in the following areas of work:

commercial contract disputes	IT disputes
construction law	emergency injunctions
procurement disputes	intellectual property disputes
admiralty law	public inquiries
commercial fraud and deceit	highway and transport related commercial disputes

Many of the cases in which we are involved are too sensitive for us to provide details, but recent cases that have come to court include:

- multi million pound proceedings in the TCC on behalf of the Highways Agency against contractors and engineers arising out of faulty renovation work to the M6 Thelwall viaduct, proceedings which were successfully settled following a mediation,
- claiming against IT contractors and supplies on behalf of DVLA, proceedings which were again successfully resolved through mediation, and
- court proceedings on behalf of the Home Office against a broadcaster arising out of a breach of security at a prison.

How we add value

We understand the balance that Government Departments must strike between contesting claims and achieving a commercial resolution. Our clients benefit from our:

- Expertise in dealing with large-scale litigation involving complex issues and substantial documentation;
- Experience in negotiation and ADR techniques;
- Expertise in dealing with high-profile legal issues of public or media interest and political sensitivity;
- Experience of the inter-relationship between commercial and public law issues.
- Unrivalled knowledge of working across Whitehall;
- Access to exceptional counsel;
- Established contacts with other government lawyers; and
- Value for money.

Our clients

We act for most of the major Departments of State and Agencies including: the Ministry of Defence, HM Treasury, the Department for Transport, the Home Office, the Department for Education and Skills, the Highways Agency and the Prison Service.
